The other four people are looking towards the center of the table, where several documents are laid out. The illustration is composed of simple, rounded shapes and lines, giving it a clean, modern feel.

PURPOSE:

Seeking meaningful public participation is important for sharing concerns of communities. The Jonesboro Metropolitan Planning Organization (MPO) is committed to proactively involve the public in identifying and addressing transportation issues. The goal is to foster improved two-way communication and trust between the MPO and its customers. Although a federal requirement, the MPO feels that local contribution to transportation planning is vital for the metropolitan area. The citizens of this area deserve the advantages of better transportation planning that cannot be done without public participation at a very early stage.

This plan is intended to ensure that public participation is an integral and effective part of the MPO activities and that decisions are made with the benefit and consideration of important public perspectives. This plan provides a mechanism for bringing a broad range of diverse viewpoints and values into the MPO decision-making process. Early public participation enables the MPO to make more informed decisions, improve quality through collaborative efforts, and build mutual understanding and trust between the MPO and the public it serves.

Certain levels of public participation are required by the prevailing federal legislation. Effective transportation decision making depends upon understanding and properly addressing the unique needs of different socioeconomic groups. The Jonesboro Metropolitan Planning Organization is committed to comprehensive and inclusive approach by involving the public in developing transportation plans and programs that fit harmoniously within the community without sacrificing safety or mobility.

FEDERAL LEGISLATION REQUIRING PUBLIC PARTICIPATION:

SAFETEA-LU:

The Safe, Accountable, Flexible, Efficient Transportation Equity Act: A Legacy for Users (SAFETEA-LU) (Pub. L. 109-59 August 10, 2005) emphasizes Participation By Interested Parties:

- A. In General: Each metropolitan planning organization shall provide citizens, affected public agencies, representatives of public transportation employees, freight shippers, providers of freight transportation services, private providers of transportation, representatives of users of public transportation, representatives of pedestrian walkways and bicycle transportation facilities, representatives of the disabled, and other interested parties with a reasonable opportunity to comment on the transportation plan.
- B. Contents of Participation Plan: A participation plan:
 - i. shall be developed in consultation with all interested parties; and
 - ii. shall provide that all interested parties have reasonable opportunities to comment on the contents on the transportation plan.

- C. Method: In carrying out subparagraph A, the metropolitan planning organization shall, to the maximum extent practicable:
- i. hold any public meetings at convenient and accessible locations and times;
 - ii. employ visualization techniques to describe plans; and
 - iii. make public information available in electronically accessible format and means, such as the World Wide Web, as appropriate to afford reasonable opportunity for consideration of public information under subparagraph A.

NEPA:

The Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) and the Federal Transit Administration (FTA) regulations implementing the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) of 1969 (as amended) outline requirements to go through an environmental review process for implementing projects from a TIP. NEPA has its own set of public participation requirements for review period and notification of interested parties on a project basis. These requirements are not a substitute for early participation at the planning and programming stages.

ADA:

The American with Disabilities Act (ADA) of 1990 encourages the participation of people with disabilities in the development and improvement of transportation and paratransit plans and services. Also in accordance with ADA guidelines, all meetings conducted by the MPO will take place at locations which are accessible facilities so as to accommodate persons with mobility limitations.

CAAA:

The Clean Air Act Amendments (CAAA) of 1990 requires the transportation community to improve air quality while, at the same time, sustain adequate mobility for transportation users. CAAA and the transportation planning provisions of SAFETEA-LU (Section 6011 – Transportation Conformity) are intended to ensure that integrated transportation and air quality planning occurs in the areas designated by the U.S. Environmental Agency (EPA) as nonattainment or maintenance areas.

Title VI – EJ:

Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1974 sets standards which authoritatively outlawed discrimination in the conduct of all Federal activities. The term Environmental Justice (EJ) was created by people concerned that everyone within the United States deserves equal protection under the country’s laws. The Presidential Executive Order 12898 of February 11, 1994 directed every Federal agency to make Environmental Justice (EJ) part of its mission by identifying and addressing the effects of all programs, policies, and activities on “minority populations and low-income population.” The U.S. Department of Transportation (DOT) issued its DOT Order to Address Environmental Justice in Minority Population and Low-income Population in 1997. The DOT Order accomplishes this goal by involving the potentially affected public in developing transportation projects that fit harmoniously within their communities without sacrificing safety and mobility.

GOALS:

1. Offer opportunities for groups and individuals to participate in the decision-making process for the development of the Long Range Transportation Plan (Metropolitan Transportation Plan, the Transportation Improvement Program (TIP), the Annual List of Projects (ALOP), and the Coordinated Public Transit – Human Services Transportation Plan.
2. Provide open and continuous communication to inform the citizens of transportation planning activities of the MPO.
3. Identify venues for public participation and provide adequate time for stakeholders and the public to participate.
4. Provide opportunities to the citizens to participate in the meetings of the Technical Advisory Committee and the Transportation Policy Committee.
5. Offer timely response to comments and concerns with the aim to educate the public about transportation programs and issues. Each employee of the MPO shares responsibilities to promote, practice, and improve public participation.
6. Extend the MPO's outreach efforts by consulting with and encouraging comments from groups and individuals belonging to minority populations, low-income populations, and other groups with special needs.
7. Review the Public Participation Plan annually and update the policy as needed.
8. Produce reports and documents understandable to the average citizen.

OUTREACH TECHNIQUES:

The Public Participation Plan of the MPO ensures citizens participation by using a number of approaches for outreaching organizations and individuals working through media outlets, radio, television, newspapers, internet, and flyers to raise awareness of issues, to schedule meetings, and to provide opportunities and outlets for review and comments. Distribution to media outlets primarily serving low income and minority groups is emphasized.

The MPO's unique logo and a slogan: Transportation Planning, We Cannot Do It Without You, provide identity to the MPO.

1. Committee Meetings:

The Transportation Policy Committee meets every quarter in February, May, August, and November while the Technical Advisory Committee meets monthly, unless canceled, to take actions on various agenda items. The meetings of these committees are open to public and the members of public are encouraged to speak on any matter related to transportation planning whether it is on the agenda or not. Persons with disabilities needing auxiliary aids or services are requested to contact the MPO office 48 hours in advance of a meeting to make appropriate arrangements for their attendance of a meeting.

The agendas of all meetings are posted at the MPO Website: www.Jonesborompo.org no less than 72 hours before a scheduled meeting. The posting of agendas complies with the requirements of the Arkansas Freedom of Information Act. The posting states the date, time, place, and the purpose of the meeting.

2. Transportation Planning Forums:

The MPO staff and other professionals participate in transportation planning forums to obtain information at the time of updating or revising the Long Range Transportation Plan (Metropolitan Transportation Plan). The forums are held in locations that are dispersed throughout the MPO area and are accessible to a broadest sector of citizens.

The first round of forums provides an opportunity for citizens to be briefed on the MTP or TIP process. To encourage optimum participation, meetings are held at times convenient to as many members of public as possible, publicized through the media, direct mailing, and the Internet. Notices of such meetings are also published in La Ventana, the weekly newsletter of the Hispanic Community Services Inc., to reach Hispanic population.

The second round of the transportation planning forums provides the results of the proposed recommendations. These meetings are intended to discuss the draft recommendations prior to the development of final recommendations.

Legal Notices are published in the local daily newspaper, the Jonesboro Sun regarding the transportation planning forums and the public meetings prior to the preparation and amendments of:

1. Transportation Improvement Program (TIP)
2. The Long Range Transportation Plan (Metropolitan Transportation Plan)
3. The Coordinated Public Transit – Human Services Transportation Plan
4. The Annual List of Projects (ALOP) that is published in the revised TIP

3. Transportation Focus Groups:

The speakers provide information on the purpose, process, and products of the MPO and seek continued participation and comments from the public.

9. Targeted Activities for Traditionally Under-Served Communities:

Contacts with traditionally under-served communities are very important. The MPO contacts minorities, disabled and other traditionally under-served communities to exchange information regarding transportation planning. PUBLIC PARTICIPATION PLAN EVALUATION GUIDEBOOK:

Introduction:

The Federal Highway Administration requires that the Jonesboro Metropolitan Planning Organization (MPO) continuously evaluate the effectiveness of public involvement activities. By continuously evaluating public participation activities, it is possible to improve or add new public participation activities to the MPO program and to discontinue activities that are ineffective. The purpose of this guidebook is to provide guidelines for the evaluation of public participation techniques contained in the Public Participation Plan.

The Public Participation Plan includes various public involvement techniques that could be used by the MPO. This guidebook describes public participation techniques, outlines the steps to be taken to evaluate those techniques, and identifies measures to quantify success rates and outlines strategies to improve the MPO's public participation process.

Evaluation Methods and Performance Goals:

To determine the effectiveness of the public participation tools, they must be evaluated and compared to established performance goals. The typical methods for evaluating the effectiveness of public participation are surveys and quantitative statistical analysis. This section briefly describes evaluation methods used by the MPO. For each public involvement tool, performance goals and methods for meeting those goals have been identified.

Surveys:

Surveys typically consist of short, specific questions regarding public participation tools that are ongoing or that were used on a specific project. Surveys can be conducted in person, by phone, mail or e-mail. Face-to-face and telephone surveys provide quick responses and can be used when a respondent's answer may lead to a follow-up question. For example, respondents may be asked if advertisements are an effective notification tool. If the response is no, the surveyor can ask the respondent why advertisements are not effective and also what other tools they would prefer. In person and telephone surveys can target specific areas or groups or can be random sampling. Mail surveys may be used to provide written record of respondent's answers. Mail-back surveys can be distributed at meetings, inside other publications, or by mailing directly to potential respondents. Respondents can be a targeted group, such as members of special interest groups or residents of specific areas, or they can be randomly generated. Return postage for mail surveys typically can be pre-paid by the MPO, or can be the responsibility of the respondent.

E-mail surveys, like mail surveys, provide a written record of responses. Unlike mail-back surveys, there is little to no reproduction or distribution cost to the MPO to send out the surveys, and little to no cost to respondents to return a response. To use e-mail surveys, it is necessary to have e-mail addresses for the targeted respondents, and random distribution is not an option.

Statistical Analysis:

Statistics can be used to determine the "return on the investment" of public participation tools. For example, the number of persons attending an activity can be compared to the number of persons that were notified of the activity. This type of evaluation can be an indicator of whether or not the tools used for public participation are actually reaching the intended audience, or which tools had a greater response rate.

Improvement Strategies:

Each time a public participation evaluation is performed, a list of improvement strategies should be identified for implementation. If an improvement is needed for an ongoing public involvement task, such as the MPO web site, a reasonable completion date should be established to implement the changes. If improvement is needed for one-time activities, such as corridor studies, the improvement should be implemented where appropriate on future activities.
